KILN DRIED FIREWOOD

Our firewood is 100% kiln dried Northeastern hardwoods. Our wood comes only from non-endangered species. Logs are cut and split into a consistent and easy to handle 17" length.

What is kiln drying?

Kiln drying is the process of removing the moisture content from wood. Wood that is already cut and split is placed inside the kiln, which is like a very large oven. During the next 24-48 hours, the moisture is evenly and thoroughly removed from the wood.

Why is kiln dried wood better than seasoned wood?

Since the moisture is more thoroughly and evenly removed from kiln dried wood, it burns cleaner, which means it produces less creosote. Creosote build-up is the number one cause of chimney fires. When wood is not properly dried, more of the wood's energy is used to burn off the excess moisture. Kiln dried wood does not have excess moisture to burn off, so it produces a much higher BTU, which means it burns hotter. Kiln dried wood also burns longer, produces less ash, and is bug-free.

Why does Sureseal LLC kiln dry all their wood?

Sureseal LLC is a full-service supplier of bulk firewood and has been in business for over 25 years. We are locally owned and operated and are proud of the reputation we have earned by providing a high quality product and outstanding service at a fair price. Supplying only kiln dried wood is just another way we continue to ensure that we provide only the best product available.
